Soap Updates by Seli Groves

ALL MY CHILDREN: Emily Ann was crushed to find out that Donna had once been a hooker and made up her mind to run away. Although Benny persuaded her to stay in Pine Valley, she insisted she'd never again live in the same house with Donna. Natalie was let off the hook by the Board of Directors despite Palmer's attempt to blackball her. Erica agreed with Travis Jack should not have spent the night. Jack bought an engagement ring and after several false starts proposed to Erica. When she said she'd have to think about marrying him, he stormed out in anger. Wait To See: Billy Clyde moves in and Donna seems helpless to keep Emily Ann out of his clutches.

ANOTHER WORLD: Amanda was determined to save her marriage to Sam. Sharlene misinterpreted what she overheard, and assumed Josie had become pregnant by Lucas. Griffen told Lucas Frankie had to be eliminated. Sharlene's erratic behavior led John to insist she be tested for hypoglycemia. When Lucas refused to kill Michael, Griffen sweetened the deal: do it, and he'll tell him how to find his daughter. Jamie told Stacey he's leaving town for a few weeks to settle things in his mind. Mitch broke into the Odyssey Wait To See: Mitch gets some startling information about Mac.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Margo and Tom confided to Ellie they planned to convince Philip his plot to frame Caleb worked. Under police guidance, Ellie told Philip she'll reveal where Margorie and the grandchildren are if he'll spring Caleb. Philip made plans for Ellie to have an "accident" after their meeting. Emily slapped Ellie at Brock's funeral. Casey told Bob he's sure Susan's hooked on pills. Barbara was interrupted as she started to tell Hal she had known the truth about Adam. Wait To See: Philip shows why he may be too clever to be defeated.

BOLD & THE BEAUTIFUL: Ridge and Caroline were married. Donna told Thorne Stephanie disliked Brooke because at one time Eric had been in love with Beth (Brooke and Donna's mother) and Stephanie found out. Clarke was delighted to meet Kristen's vivacious sister, Felicia. Stephanie complained of not feeling well. Later, she was found apparently lifeless on the stairs in her home. Wait To See: Brooke gets shocking news.

DALLAS: Jamie was worried about Michael's real feelings for him. Bobby confronted April regarding McKay's accusations. J.R.'s plans for another oil bonanza were threatened. Wait To See: Cliff makes a questionable move.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Tarrington and Simon tried to explain to Shane the I.S.A.'s treatment of him was a mistake. Shane told Kimberly he didn't trust their explanation. With Cal's help, Rebecca got Shane to suspect Kimberly of duplicity, but she vowed to make him trust her again. Patch asked Jack to be his best man. Kiriakis was prepared to use the incriminating tape to keep Kayla from marrying Patch, while Shane surprised Kimberly by turning up for the wedding. Wait To See: Julie has plans for Kiriakis that won't appreciate.

FALCON CREST: Danny realized the depth of his father's jealousy over Lauren. Richard discovered who really betrayed him. He tried to reconcile with Lauren who decided to escape her brother. Michael's possessive jealousy. Wait To See: Pilar and Lance may have misjudged Danny's motives.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: The mysterious Jonathan Paget bought a set of rare china to be delivered to Sean. Anna felt she would be able to move ahead in her life if she could get Olivia to tell the truth about Daniel Lund. Jullian was determined that Olivia would take the fall for killing Duke. Tracy began to find Scott more and more attractive, while she became more and more abusive of Tracy. Wait To See: Colton makes a risky decision in an attempt to help Olivia.

GENERATIONS: Jessica believed Daniel was a guilty man, otherwise, why would he be on the run. Martin arranged for "burglars" to clean out the Jackson's valuables while he and Doreen had dinner out. Daniel was given his new identity papers and told he and Maya would be moving to Trenton, New Jersey. Adam followed Maya to the bus station where she told him she was leaving and never coming back. Jason broke the news to Jessica. Mary hid the $60 million dollars and won't say where. Wait To See: Adam makes an impulsive decision.

GUIDING LIGHT: While trying to stop Scully from torching her store, Harley fell and was trapped in the fire. Sam found her as Scully fled to save himself. Dylan rescued Harley and Sam. At Harley's urging, Dylan returned to the store to find a box of letters. He collapsed when he was overcome by smoke. Also Michael attempted to rescue Dylan, but was pinned down by falling debris. Dana came under new suspicion when master tapes of Johnny's show that were to be submitted to a syndicator were erased. Wait To See: Rose persists in reassuring Holly about their relationship.

KNOTS LANDING: Greg was haunted by the memories of his father and his murdered daughter, Mary Frances. Karen was shocked when Val told her that she and Danny Walenka had eloped. Mary Frances' boyfriend, Robert, provided some insights into her life. Wait To See: Greg finds more mysteries behind his daughter's death.

LOVING: The auto mechanic who repaired Clay's car the night of the accident told them TWO cars were damaged that night. Ava and Kate rushed Egypt to the hospital after she passed out. Alex got control of the gun and managed to get Clay into handcuffs. However, Clay now knew the secret to brainwashing Alex. Wait To See: Trisha and Trucker realize they may not be able to escape Jelka.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Ana insisted Clint stop Viki from running for mayor; it would be hard for the Buchanans if she won. Roger, however, was very much in her corner. Michael got Dorian to persuade Herb to run against Viki. Later, Michael ragged Brenda's eviction from her apartment and was pleased when she called him for help. Roland convinced Dorian that because of his blindness, Raymond would need a great deal of help. Wait To See: Clint feels Roger is pushing him further away from Viki.

SANTA BARBARA: Eden tried desperately to tell Cruz she loved him and that Robert was completely in the past. Nikki,however, interrupted her effort and seemed to be taking more importance in Cruz's life. Laura realized that to keep up her bluff she really had to get pregnant, and soon, and decided Michael would be the perfect father. A shocked Kelly learned Mason would be aboard the gambling boat Robert planned to blow sky high. Wait To See: Cruz makes a shocking discovery, but it may be too late to save him.

YOUNG & THE RESTLESS: Victor told Brad that he would go ahead and sell the Jabot men's line, and expected Brad to support his decision. Kay assured Esther they'll get out of their predicament and Kay will return to her husband and her house. Cass insisted to Paul that no one was in the house with her when George died. Adrian broke in and warned Paul never to touch or speak with Cass again. Wait To See: Kay and Esther await their fates, while Rex begins to suspect something isn't quite right.

Tuning In
by Seli Groves

THAT'S OUR BOY! "Superboy" finally learns the facts of (his) life on two episodes of the popular syndicated series airing February 12 and 19. His real parents, played by beautiful Britt Ekland and former James Bond-attman, George Lazenby, will show up and reveal that he really comes from Krypton and that's why he can do so well what other kids on Earth can't do at all.

Britt laughed when I asked her if it bothered the glamorous Swedish born star to play a mother role. "But I am a mother," she said. "I have a daughter, Lisa, 16, and a 21-month-old baby, a little boy. Anyway, I am having a wonderful time playing this character. She's marvelous. The only thing that bothers me is that part of the time I have to wear a lizard costume and it gets very warm here in Florida (where the show is produced) and I'll be happy when I can change out of it."

I asked Lazenby, who was also in his lizard phase of his ex-El character (piloted by Marlon Brando in the "Superman" films) what he would have done if he hadn't become an actor. "For one thing, I wouldn't be wearing this outfit. For another, I guess I'd spend a lot of time riding motorcycles."

DIAL TONES: Is John Randolph (NBC's "Grand") psychic or what? Last week, starting the short-lived "Annie McGuire" series, he told me about a recent visit to the Soviet Union. "Changes are coming," he said. "Wonderful things will soon be happening. I'm sure of it." John Davidson's "TSN Holiday Gourmet" show (Feb. 7) has tips to help you prepare Valentine's Day gastronomical goodies . . . "Falcon Crest's" Ana Alicia stars in CBS' "Miracle Landing" (Feb.11) about the plane that landed safely although its top was sheared off . . . Timothy Busfield ("Thirtysomething" ABC) hosts LIFETIME's "Don't Divorce the Children," focusing on the effect of divorce on kids. Paint & Household
by Bob D'Angelo

Q. I have a hot water radiator under my bedroom window. The plaster behind the radiator and under the window is crumbling. How can I repair this area without removing the radiator.

A. I'm afraid there is no other alternative them to remove the radiator first. Make sure the water is turned off and removed from the radiator before you start.

A combination of heat (from the radiator) and moisture (from the window) is the reason for crumbling plaster. Remove all loose plaster. You may have to go down to the lathe. Plaster Patch may be suitable to patch a small area such as yours. Keep in mind that plaster sets very fast, usually in a matter of minutes. So, either work fast, or only mix small amounts. Structolite, a cement-like plaster powder would be best to build up the area to within ½ inch, and then finish coat with gauging plaster or plaster of Paris. Structolite affords you about 15 minutes before setting. The only problem is that Structolite is hard to get, and usually cannot be purchased in small amounts.

Q. Thank you for your column. It has always been so helpful to me. I hope you might be able to help me on this one. My husband's grave marker at Pinelawn is badly tarnished. I have tried cleaning it, but to no avail. Can you help?

A. This is a perfect opportunity for me to mention my son, Pvt. Brad D'Angelo, who is home on leave from the Army in Fort Leonard Wood in Missouri. The first thought that popped into Brad's head, as well as any person who has served in the Armed Forces, is "BRASSO." How well I remember being in the MP's, "brassoing" belt buckles and collar brass until I could see the reflection of my face in them.

A soft cloth and lots of elbow grease should be all that is needed to restore the lustre to bronze.

Antiques and Collecting
by Ralph & Terry Kovel

Q. I just purchased a small pottery bank that says "Blades" on the side. How was it used?

A. You own a razor-blade bank. When the disposable metal razor blade became popular in the early 1900s, there was the problem of disposing of the old razor blades, which were sharp and dangerous for children. There were many contests in newspapers offering prizes for the best solutions. Manufacturers soon began using the razor-blade "bank" as a promotional item. Sometimes companies gave away metal boxes with slotted lids and locks for temporary used-blade storage. Sometimes the bank was part of a shaving set. Some were made as advertising pieces marked with a company's name. Barnga Shaw Gillette, American Safety Razor Company, Listerine and others put their names on the small amounts. Structolite, a cement-like plaster powder would be best to build up the area to within ½ inch, and then finish coat with gauging plaster or plaster of Paris. Structolite affords you about 15 minutes before setting. The only problem is that Structolite is hard to get, and usually cannot be purchased in small amounts.

Q. My piano was purchased a number of years ago. It is marked "W.E. Wheelock & Co., N.Y. 18054." It has superb tone. Can you suggest the date of manufacture?

A. Mr. Wheelock made pianos with Mr. Billings at a company called Billings & Wheelock in 1873. The name was changed in 1880 to Wheelock Piano Company. By 1903, it was part of the Aeolian Corporation. The numbers indicate a date of about 1901. They made piano 16,000 in 1900, piano 334,000 in 1941.

YOUR HOROSCOPE
by Charles King Cooper

WEEKLY TIP: Keep those resolutions to get your house in order. Catch up on neglected work.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A businesslike and rational approach is preferable to aggressive action. Be willing to sit down to discuss issues. Romance is exciting, but avoid clandestine meetings this week. Do research on financial matters.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Avoid arguments with trusted advisers. Flirting on the job has its risks. Don't mix business with pleasure. Use common sense in work-related problems. Watch distractions. Social life brings romantic possibilities.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Romance is favored, but avoid premature introductions to relatives. Maintain cool on the job. Don't get riled over little things. Family discussions on joint assets are indicated. Don't be rushed into signing anything. Watch disputes about intimate matters.

MOON CHILDREN (June 21 to July 22) Watch extravagance or loved ones will be put out. Let reason prevail in talks with close ties. Compromise is the key word this week. Despite distractions on the job, the way is clear for financial gain. Stick with the tasks at hand and you will be successful.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Follow the course of your heart. Be sincere with close ties. Clandestine involvements are not your style. Don't let friends upset your domestic routine. You need peace and quiet now as an aid to accomplishment. Catch up on reading.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) There could be a breakdown in communications now. Double check appointments. Avoid sharp retorts. Friends are helpful. Travel may prove costly now. Allow for unexpected expense. Concentrating on career goals will bring progress.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Romance is exciting but iffy. Be realistic about travel plans. Advice about a financial matter may be off base. Avoid wishful thinking. An innocent flirtation can backfire on you. It will be hard to keep activities secret now.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You're easily distracted from work now. A friend can prove like a romance. Half of what you imagine now may not be true, especially about close ties. Good intentions now are not enough. Higher-ups will be displeased if you fall short on the job.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Visitors could overstay their welcome. The unexpected behavior of a close tie could change your plans. Be realistic on career goals. Romance excites but can be detrimental if it interferes with concentration. Unverified guests may upset routine.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) If you're extravagant, a close tie could be upset. It's not a good time to sign papers. Be extra careful in legal and financial affairs. Avoid office flirtations. Keep your mind on work. Someone may conceal the truth about a financial matter.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You're in the mood for adventure but inclined to make a mistake. Watch outlandish behavior. Avoid escapism. Be on guard in romance. You're impressionable now, and easily deceived. Small domestic problems are likely.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Watch manners in dealing with higher-ups. Too familiar behavior by a boss, who was the wrong way. Friends are prone to exaggerate or misrepresent. A legal fee may be higher than anticipated. Keep your feet on the ground in career matters.

IF BORN THIS WEEK, you are both idealistic and practical but sometimes have difficulty reconciling these qualities. Though you're a born moneymaker, your fortunes are liable to fluctuate. You'd make a fine writer or librarian. Banking and travel may also appeal.

DOLLARS & SENSE

Be Free From Debt
by Bryon Elson

You can determine how much debt you can carry safely by dividing the amount owed on your credit cards by your annual take-home pay. The number you arrive at should be no higher than 15 to 20 percent of annual salary.

Another way to judge whether you are carrying too much debt is to calculate how much money you have available each month.

Start by dividing a piece of paper into two columns. In one column, list any form of monthly income you receive. In the second column, list all of your fixed and variable expenses.

The difference between your total monthly income and your expenses is the amount you have available for paying credit card bills.

Now you have a realistic idea of how much you can afford to send to your creditors on a monthly basis. If you cannot afford to send more than the minimum, or 5% pay all of your creditors on time, you may be on the verge of drowning in debt.

Even if your current level of debt is below the danger zone, you may be headed for credit trouble. Watch for such warning signs as taking cash advances to meet current bills, ignoring credit limits, and charging daily expenses such as groceries or gasoline.

To begin with, hide your credit cards and forget they exist. If your mail brings a tempting application for a pre-approved credit card, tear it up.

In many cases, debt consolidation with a home equity loan may provide an organized way to pay off debt within a specified time period. However, if you are addicted to credit, the chances are good that your loans will lull you into believing that you have paid your debts and can now resume charging.

Another option is to draw up an austerity budget and see if you can locate some more cash free to pay your obligations. Try to pay off more than the minimum on each of your credit cards. If you simply cannot find the money to meet your bills, you probably will need help from a CPA or a credit counselor.

There are over 350 nonprofit consumer-credit counseling services that belong to the National Foundation for Consumer Credit. These organizations can help work out a payment plan with your creditors.

These counselors charge only a nominal fee, or, in some cases, no fee at all. For a directory of locations, write to NFCC, 8701 Georgia Avenue, Suite 507, Silver Springs, Md. 20910.

DEAR DIANE
by Diane Van Arsdale

DEAR DIANE:
I'm 15 years old, and my mother is always getting on my case about school work, and to consider a career that requires internet me in the future. She also wants me to think about going to college to further my education. Who needs this? I want to get married as soon as I graduate from high school. Then I want to have kids of my own to raise. I will be taken care of by my husband. I won't need a career. How can I explain this to my mother?
DETERMINED

DEAR DETERMINED:
It is very foolish for a woman in this day and age to expect she will be "taken care of" by any man. For one thing, it's totally unfair to place that kind of burden on a man. More importantly, women should live to their full potential by having careers of their own. Even if you do marry right after high school (too young, in my opinion), you will most likely find out that you need two incomes to survive.

Listen to your mom. Go to college and get an education. Believe me, you'll find a whole new world will open up to you.

DEAR DIANE:
I'm in my early 30s and have been married for seven years. In the last year, our sex life has turned from great to almost nothing. I've tried some new things to spark things up, but nothing seems to work. I thought perhaps he was having an affair, so I asked my husband if he was, and he claims he's not. He's never lied to me before and I truly believe him. What can we do, to bring some spark back into our sex life? My husband is a very private person regarding his sex life, so please don't tell me to see a sex therapist; he would never agree to it.
SEXLESS

DEAR SEXLESS:
Stress can severely dampen the sexual appetite, so it could be that your husband is experiencing things at work are getting to him, this could be why he's not that interested in sex. Also, marriages go through certain phases where sex is concerned. If you lighten up and take some pressure off you and your husband, things will most likely improve in time. If you feel the situation is deteriorating further in a few months, I believe you should see a marriage counselor.

DEAR DEX
by Dexter Dyer

DEAR DEX:
I've been married to a man I'll call "Bob" twice already, and I'm seeing another man I'll call "Craig." Things between Craig and me have been going very well for approximately six months. We're considering moving in with one another to see how things would work out before we decide to get married. But now Bob is constantly calling me and bothering me that he was wrong to divorce me, and that he'll do anything for me to go back with him and remarry for the third time. I married him twice already because I really and truly love him. After our last divorce, he hadn't called or shown any interest in me for a long time, and I was devastated because I was so hurt from our divorce. I was alone for a pretty long time, sometimes hoping he would call, but that call never came, and now I finally found someone whom I believe I'm fallen in love with. Craig and I have had some very special times together, and have much to explore with each other in the future. There will always be a special place in my heart for Bob, but could the third time really work in your eyes, or am I just setting myself up again? Should I stay with Craig and give this a try, even if it doesn't work between us?
CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED:
It appears to me that you are looking for a guarantee that your next relationship is going to work out. No one can give you that, and you won't accomplish it by going back to your ex-husband. However, if you still feel you are unresolved about that former relationship, it wouldn't be fair of you to enter into a more committed relationship with Craig. You will only be burdening the situation with the unwanted baggage of your last relationship. This is something you are going to have to ask yourself and face honestly. Once you have the answer, you'll know what to do.

If you decide you still need to explore your feelings for Bob, I strongly suggest you don't marry him. You can see each other and have a relationship without getting married. There were reasons for your other two break-ups and whatever those problems were, they're not going to just go away because you decide to marry for the third time. You need to address those problems and solve them before marrying again. Good luck.

THE CHOPPING BLOCK
by Philomena Corradeno

It's the season for stews and soups, not only because we're still recovering from the holiday budget blues, but because they are comforting and warming, easy to prepare and need little attention once they hit the heat.

Today's stew makes use of banks, one of the most economical meat cuts which are more flavorful than inexpensive stew meats, and higher-priced cuts. Grapes give it a unique twist and taste and an unusual crunchy texture.

BONES AND GRAPES STEW

¼ cup flour
4 pounds (2-inch thick pieces) veal, lamb or beef shanks
¼ cup vegetable oil
1 large onion, coarsely chopped
3 stalks celery, diced
4 medium carrots, diced
1 clove garlic, minced
1 16-oz. can tomatoes, cut into chunks
½ cup dry white wine
1 to 2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon thyme, crushed
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups California red or green grapes, halved and seeded if necessary

Shake flour and shanks in clean dry bags until shanks are lightly coated. Brown shanks in oil over medium-high heat a few at a time; remove and set aside. Add onion, celery, carrots and garlic; cook until tender. Return shanks to pan; add tomatoes, wine, salt, thyme and pepper. Bring to boil; reduce heat, cover and simmer 1½ hours or until tender. Stir in grapes and lemon before serving. Makes six to eight servings.

CORRECTION: In a recent "Chopping Block" column featuring Savory Saga Blue Pears. Blue Pears, Blue Cheese Fruit Salad and Dressing, and Savory Mushroom Dip, through a typographical error, the cheeses were referred to as Sage. In all cases the ingredient should be SAGA, a Danish cheese manufactured in the United States and Denmark. In Savory Saga Blue Pears, the Blue Cheese Fruit Salad and Dressing, the ingredient is Saga Blue Cheese; in Savory Mushroom Dip it is Saga Mushroom cheese. We apologize for any inconvenience or confusion.

Entertainment Extra by Evelyn

Q. What's the word on Carol Burnett's new weekly series? I haven't heard or seen anything about it and was wondering if she has changed her mind about returning to the rigors of a weekly show. J.E., Hagerstown, Md.

A. Carol has not changed her mind about doing a weekly series even though she is gracing herself for the chance of failure — something Carol has never had to deal with on the small screen. The show is tentatively scheduled for a March debut. NBC has not yet announced a day or time slot as of this writing. The holdup on the show is that good scripts have been hard to come by. The premise of Carol's new show is to involve her two daughters, Carrie and Jodie, in different characters every week. Carol, though, will be not be reprising any of her famous characters from her hit 1970s variety show on CBS.

Q. I've had it with Roseanne Barr. When she says she's the typical American, I say, how soon can I leave the country. My question is, how much talent does it take to make smarty remarks and whine the way she does? Eleanor, W. Allis, Wis.

A. The press isn't picking up on Roseanne Remember, she was the one who made sure the press was there when she wanted coverage — even if the coverage later turned out to be unwanted against her. Sure, the press covers all the problems on her show, but since when did a TV sitcom come under the protection of executive privilege? Besides, we wouldn't know what happened unless someone connected with the show told the press about it.

In defense of Roseanne Barr, I have to say she is a very talented woman with a great gift for using humor to pierce much of the hypocrisy of our society. Next time you hear her being smutty or whiny, really listen to what she has to say. You may learn something.

Q. A friend came back from Europe and said some of the papers are predicting Prance is going to take over Monaco because of a problem with the heirs to the throne. Can you explain this? Donna, Philadelphia, Pa. (Grace Kelly's hometown)

A. A Monagasque living in the United States told me France and Monaco signed an agreement that if there were no male heir to the throne, Monaco would allow itself to be absorbed into France. At this time, Price Albert, the only son born to Prince Rainier and the late Grace Kelly, remains the Grimaldi heir. But if he doesn't marry and have children, that could be the end of Monaco's independence unless of course, they realize we're almost into the 21st century and recognize Princess Caroline and her youngsters. P.S. Marrying late seems to be a Grimaldi male tradition. Prince Rainier married relatively late.

A. While February 19, 1990, marks the season finale of Tracey's critically acclaimed sitcom, it could also be the last for good. Ratings are not the reason, though. It seems that the rigors of a very demanding weekly variety show, with Tracey involved in almost every aspect of the show, have finally taken their toll on the actress. In other words, she's worn out. Besides, the actress has a very promising future in motion pictures. However, if Fox makes an offer that is out of this world, she might change her mind. I will keep you posted on further developments. P.S. Glenn Close makes a guest appearance on the show's season finale.

Q. Whatever happened to Bo Derek? F.B., Bowie, Md.

A. Miss Ten herself is alive and doing very well, thank you. In fact, Bo has just completed filming a comedy titled "Ghosts," with her husband John. Next on the horizon is a flick in which Bo portrays a female vampire. The film is tentatively titled "Countess Dracula," and according to Bo, it's not going to be a comedy, but a drama.
